Fast Fashion & Climate Change

How does clothing affect climate change?

- High water consumption
- Chemical contamination from dyeing and processing
- Incineration or landfill disposal of large quantities of unsold or discarded clothing

Top tips on how to be a responsible consumer

Buy less, invest in better quality and recycle – it may be called 'fast fashion' but your spending habits don't have to be.

How can you combat climate change through clothing?

- Reduce consumption and waste
- Avoid disposables and fast fashion, and try not to buy more than you need
- Buy quality products that are built to last
- Choose green and eco-friendly brands
- Repair and Reuse
- Donate unwanted items to charity or sell them to give them a new lease of life

♣ Vintage Condition Guide

This is a widely used guide, but not all vintage sellers are the same, so do ask for additional information if you require clarification. We pride ourselves on the immacliate condition of our vintage. Any imperfections will always be clearly disclosed, and described in all vintage product listings. Our vintage is graded for condition, using the following categories:

- As New: Labels are intact, no signs of wear, no damage.
- Near Perfect - Mint: Shows only the slightest signs of being worn.
- Excellent: Shows typical, although minor, signs of wear.
- Very Good: Considered wearable but has some surface flaws i.e. staining, soiling or colour damage.
- Poor: Shows significant signs of wear.
